

THE COMFORT/ATTRACTION SEESAW

COMFORT

To build comfort, you have to ask good questions. In parenthesis, I have added the reasons I would be asking the following questions - either because I have something in common or I have a standard for the types of people I want in my life. And the answers that the person gives me could determine whether or not I end up spending more time with them in the future. Comfort building questions are essentially you just getting to know the person, but from a place where you actually know what you're looking for and what you like. Here are some comfort building questions:

- 1.) You look like you like to travel where have you been? (i love to travel)
- 2.) How do you want to be remembered when you die
- 3.) Do you like to read? (I love to read)
- 4.) Are you into art? (my mom is a painter)
- 5.) What are you gonna cook for me 3 months into dating? (aka are you healthy)
- 6.) Are you into fitness? (aka are you healthy)
- 7.) Do you hate anyone? (to see if this is a toxic person)
- 8.) What can you talk about for hours? (Law of attraction)
- 9.) Do you have any unusual hobbies or interests? (I meditate)

BANTER

Feminine to Masculine Banter

Powerful feminine people look for powerful masculine people which cuts through all of her tests of strength. Good feminine to masculine banter tests that the masculine's consciousness is grounded in presence, and detached for the ego.

- "What was that... your pick up line?" - said in a playful way
- "I bet you say that to all the girls" - said in a playful way
- "I can tell you're one of those player guys, aren't you?" - said in a playful way
- "I don't date short guys" - said in a playful way

The feminine can also test how strong the masculine is by asking for favors that would make the masculine steer from groundedness into compliant, obedient behavior.

- "Are you gonna buy me a drink or what?" - said in a playful way

The goal for the feminine is to tempt the masculine into bragging about himself, his ego. If he takes the bait, he's probably ego dependent, insecure, or has something to hide.

- "Wow you must work out a lot..." - said in a playful way
- "Oh, so what do you do for work?" - said in a playful way

The truth is that the feminine is simply naturally good at testing the masculine. Banter comes naturally to the feminine. All of this will sound familiar to an experienced powerful feminine person.

Masculine to Feminine Banter

- Ask, “where are u from?” then react slightly disapprovingly, but also in a joking manner and ask, “Is it true what they say about girls from _____

- You could also respond, “Ouch... I dont normally girls from... they’re usually just not that deep in my experience!” But you’re just kidding, and she should know it.

You’re playfully teasing her.

- “I hate you so much” - said in a playful way

- “I can’t even talk to you anymore” - said in a playful way

- “Are you trying to get your ass kicked right now?” - said in a playful way

- “You’re not _____ (insert adjective such as foreign, or Jewish, or blonde, or anything) enough for me” - said in a playful way

- “I feel like we’d never work because we’d always fight and I’d always win”

- “You’re such a little shit... why are you doing this to me?” - said in a playful way

- Tell her, “oh, you have a little eye boogie” (she might not even have one) and then point to your own eye OR try to “get it out” for her... For some reason this is just a funny thing to say in social interactions and always gets a good response

- “You’re my new BFF. I was looking for a (blonde, brunette, asian, jewish) best friend like you!” said in a playful way

- “You’re so cute haha. You remind me of my little sister! You could be my little sister!” said in a playful way

Along the path of your social interaction, it’s likely going to become more and more sexual and flirtatious as the sexual tension between the masculine and feminine energy starts to build. Now you can start saying more “edgy” flirtatious things as long as you have been building comfort during the interaction. Definitely do not say anything the following lines right off the bat.

- “I’m a virgin,” said in a playful way, smirking

- “You won’t like me because I’m too perfect,” said in a playful way, smirking

- “Look we have the same skin color, you can be like my little sister” - said in a playful way

- “You know, although you’re very beautiful and sexy, you’re perfect for my friend zone because at this point in my life, I’d just rather be friends.” - said in a playful way
- “We would never work out because _____” - said in a playful way

The following are only recommended if you are actually feeling sexual tension and you are sure the feminine side of the interaction feels comfortable around you. If you notice any signs of discomfort or if you feel uncomfortable yourself saying these during the interaction, it’s definitely not a good time to say anything like this. However, if you want to make the interaction more playful and fun and in matches the vibe, sex jokes are okay and the tension will escalate.

- “I’m on my period so don’t get any ideas!” - said in a playful way
- “I’m on a 30-day celibacy challenge, tonight is night 4 so don’t fuck it up” - said in a playful way
- “You won’t like me because I enjoy having sex 3 times a day” - said in a playful way
- “Too bad your personality isn’t big enough for me! (pointing to chest area jokingly)” - said in a playful way

The following is a very powerful attraction building line only to be used when you are 110% sure the feminine person in the conversation is highly comfortable with you and only works in loud party or event settings...

- 1.) Say something very sexual and funny into her ear...
- 2.) “You smell like you just had sex in the bathroom” (doesn’t even really make sense)
 - She will say “wait WHAT?”
- 3.) Then just say, “What? I was asking if you knew where the bathroom is?”

At this point of the conversation, you should have enough attunement to the sexual tension of the conversation and this is where sexual escalation can occur. Never physically sexually escalate at a party or in a club or in public. Public displays of affection are not okay. At this point either suggest going somewhere else like her place or your place and continue building the tension until behind closed doors. Then go wild and get your freaks on.

One note on 'getting your freak on' - consent is more than key.

You must continuously check-in for consent. If alcohol has been involved, consent does not matter. You need a 100% yes before escalating anything sexual even with partners you have had for long periods of time. Asking for consent, and being 100% okay if the partner is not comfortable is not only extremely important to respect boundaries, but also shows that you have character, respect, and you are not desperate.

